An alumnus story – Mia Wang, international student working in Sweden

Do you know yourself good enough, and do you know what value can you create for an organization or to the society? When, where and how to start your job hunting as an international student? Meet Mia, an alumni from the Masters programme Supply Chain Management. During this two-year master program in JIBS, she was employed by one of the largest Swedish manufacturing company Tetra Pak for two summers. Also, the exchange study experience in Canada helped her have a deeper understanding of the whole world, combining her Asian background and her journey in Europe. Job hunting is an art of demonstrating your value to the society. Mia would like to share her thoughts and experience with you.
